We’ve all had eventful lives. But, how many of us have taken the time to share those wonderful memories with loved ones?

That’s precisely what this workshop, conducted by San Diego writer Sid Shapira, is all about. Shapira, who has worked as a journalist and corporate communications professional, created his memoir writing business, Stories Be Told, in 2011.

In this workshop, Shapira outlines how you can get started on creating your own memoir and gives attendees an opportunity to begin documenting those memorable stories. Don’t miss out on your chance to preserve family history and to share a special gift – your life story – with those closest to you!

* Attendees are asked to bring family photos from their childhood, along with a pen and a pad of paper, to the event.

Come prepared to sign up for the Six-week course on Memoir Writing

Have you always wanted to document your life story, but didn’t know where to start? Led by memoir writer Sid Shapira, learn the steps involved by enrolling in an interactive ‘Memoir Writing’ class.

Over the six classes, participants will learn how to get started in this process. More importantly, they will have the opportunity to begin working on their own memoir for future generations to enjoy.

Among the topics to be discussed and explored are childhood, family, education/career, hobbies and interests, and more.

Don’t miss out on your chance to preserve family history and to share a special gift – your life story – with those closest to you!
